These terrible enemies of human happiness, Rhennatism, Gont and Neuralgia, beretefore sceningly meconquatable, have indeed found their master in Jonkins' Annihilator. We have the testimony of mon of the highest standing in Louisiana and of the highest standing in Louisiana and other States, that after suffering indescribable pains for years, from which they sought relief in vain by visiting the Hot and Warm springs of Arkansas and Virginia, and by using dozens of remedies more or less highly peased, when, in fact, hope and almost died out, they have found relief from pain by the use of the Annihilator, and by continuing it for a short time have been terfectly cured. The Antime, have been perfectly cured. Satin is very much in use, both for evening toilets and dinner dresses. A rich satiu is always elegant and darable, and less ex-pensive than silks, which show the same quality-hence, since before the war, have silks, as well as other goods, been so very reasonable in price. A superb black silk may be bought for $2.50 per yard, and very good qualities indeed, in both plain and colored silks, at a much lower figure than that. .

Combinatian costumes have lost none of their favor with the ladies; indeed, a fashion at once so pretty 900 and economical deserves a long life. There are few ladies who have not an old silk in their wardrobes which may be made the basis of a new suit. As a rule the underskirt must be darker than the overdress, and should also be of solid color, the upper part of the dress being of the figured material-that is, where one of the component parts of the suit is figured or bourette in design.

Princess dresses with long trains are still in favor, and likely to continue so for some time to come, simplicity in dress now being the rage, and the princess is certainly much less elaborate in style and much more artistic than the old-fashioned basques and overskirts. Still, these are also worn, and, in fact, one can hardly be out of the fashion, as there are always two or three leading styles from which to select. The fan-train is still worn, while other dresses have the train simply scalloped and bound, without other

But it had assumed a very malignant type, and the people in the community were terror stricken and afraid to go near it and nurse the sick. Dr. Ford told me that when he went to Mr. Bracey's house there were and windows to be thrown open and tar to be burned in the house, and sprinkled carbolic acid through the rooms, and even then it was impossible for him to bear it-that human imagination could scarcely conceive how horrible it was O'Brien had died and was burried.
